The Ten Thousand Doors of January

by Alix E. Harrow

A woman navigating the out-of-place artifacts in her caretaker's sprawling early 20th-century mansion discovers a mysterious book that reveals impossible truths about the world and her own past.

Mr. Nobody

by Catherine Steadman

Treating a man found on the beach with no memory of his identity, a neuropsychologist who would hide her own past is confronted by her patient's mysterious knowledge of her secrets. By the author of Something in the Water.

The Last Train to London

by Meg Waite Clayton

A tale inspired by the Kindertransports of World War II finds a Jewish teen's life shattered by the Nazi takeover before he joins a member of the Dutch resistance in a life-risking effort to escape Germany.

The Glittering Hour

by Iona Grey

A tale set in pre-World War II England follows an unlikely romance between a penniless painter and a wealthy socialite who is forced by tragedy to make a safe choice. By the award-winning author of Letters to the Lost.

Treason

by Stuart Woods

Helping his close friend discretely identify and remove a destructive traitor hiding within a classified agency, Stone Barrington is embroiled in an audacious plot that threatens to reveal confidential intelligence.

Good Girls Lie

by J. T. Ellison

In a follow-up to Lie to Me and Tear Me Apart, a popular transfer student at an elite prep school races to protect a dangerous secret when a killer sets her up for a string of murders.

Lost

by James Patterson

Tasked with combating international crime, Detective Tom Moon searches for two Russian nationals who have built a vast, powerful European crime syndicate that reaches into Miami.

The Wives

by Tarryn Fisher

A woman in a voluntarily bigamous marriage befriends one of her husband's other wives by chance, only to discover that the gentle husband she knows may be abusing his other families.

The Playground

by Jane Shemilt

A follow-up to The Daughter finds the lives of three very different couples upended by illicit affairs and shocking violence when their children join the same tutoring circle during a hot London summer.

The Vanishing

by Jayne Ann Krentz

Decades after a mysterious explosion causes the members of their community to develop strange otherworldly symptoms, local investigator Cat teams up with an enigmatic scientist to stop a killer who may be behind a partner's disappearance.
